By The Numbers - Non Pro Preliminaries

This year's Non Pro Classic kicks off with the preliminaries this morning in the Ford Truck Arena. A total of 223 entries fill this year's class, with exhibitors representing nine different countries including the USA, Australia, Switzerland, Mexico, Brazil, South Africa, Italy, and Canada. Among these competitors, there are some noteworthy similarities - here are just a few!

Since the start of the NRBC in 1998, there have been 16 different Non Pro champion riders aboard 23 different horses. Of the past 16 champion riders, six will be competing again this year in the Non Pro Classic. Only four of the champions have won the Classic title more than once.

This year's entries include two riders with Million Dollar Rider status and one rider who has surpassed $3 million in lifetime earnings. On the horse side, 183 of the 223 entries are sired by a Million Dollar Sire - that's 82% of the class.

Spooks Gotta Whiz leads the pack as the sire with the most offspring entered this year, with 30. He's followed by Gunnatrashya with 19, Magnum Chic Dream with 16, Pale Face Dunnit with 14, and Inferno Sixty Six with 12.

Topsail Whiz, a $13 Million Dollar Sire, holds the record for siring the most offspring to win an NRBC Non Pro Championship. With a foal in the Non Pro preliminaries, there's a chance he could add another.

Looking at mare power, both Chexanicki and Dun With Suprizes each have three foals in this year's class. Additionally, six pairs of siblings will be shown in the class.

Here's how the horse genders break down: 86 geldings, 79 mares, and 58 stallions. Age-wise, the entries include 34 four-year-olds, 83 five-year-olds, 61 six-year-olds, and 45 seven-year-olds.

Classic Connection - Randy Snodgress

As horses are ridden into the Built Ford Tough Livestock Complex at Expo Square for this year's NRBC, the footing beneath their hooves is being handled by someone who knows exactly what it takes to make a great arena. Randy Snodgress, founder of Arena Werks, is at the helm this year—bringing nearly four decades of hands-on experience and a seasoned crew that's well known to NRBC exhibitors.

Snodgress didn't set out to start an arena equipment company. "I was training horses and needed a drag," he says. "I saw some parts at a trailer place near Fort Worth, and one thing led to another. Before long, I was always in the shop building drags instead of riding."

He and his wife built Arena Werks with family in mind—raising their kids close to home instead of staying on the road full-time. Today, his son William and son-in-law Ty Ferguson are leading the next generation of the company. "I told them, if you want it big, you've got to learn it from the ground up. They went in the shop, learned to weld, and now they're taking it to the next level."

Arena Werks is now a go-to name at major shows across the country, including The Run For A Million, APHA World Championship Show, and NSBA World Championship Show. One of the key tools behind that success is the Arena Werks Elite, a drag design they developed eight years ago. "We changed everything about the way it works," Snodgress explains. "It's heavier, it has solid sides so dirt doesn't leak out, and it really moves ground the way it should. It's made a big difference."

As Snodgress steps in at NRBC, he's following in the tracks of longtime NRBC drag sponsor Jim Kiser of Kiser Arena Specialists, who has stepped back to focus on other areas of his business. "I've got a tremendous amount of respect for the Kiser family," Snodgress says. "Bob Kiser revolutionized dirt prep—before that, people were showing on junk dirt. And Jim's carried that legacy forward. He's moved on to other things, and we're glad we were in the right place at the right time."

NRBC show management is confident in the transition. Tim McQuay shares, "We're excited to welcome Randy and Arena Werks. Our exhibitors know their work from other shows, and we expect the same high standards here."

Snodgress hasn't come alone. "I don't want to walk into a show like this with a brand-new crew," he says. "There are some familiar faces—Matt Amsden, and the rest of the team from shows like the APHA World Show or The Run For A Million. These guys know what they're doing. I've tweaked a few things my way, but I couldn't do this without them."

Attendees can also stop by and visit with Snodgrass and his crew in person. Arena Werks has a booth on-site throughout the show, giving folks a chance to ask questions and learn more about the equipment.

That's kind of our thing."

And if you've ever wondered why "Werks" is spelled with an E? "We just wanted something different," Snodgrass says with a grin. "Everybody wants to spell it with an 'O,' just like they want to spell Snodgrass with an 'A,' but we thought it'd stand out.

Arena Werks started out as a way to fill a need—and today, it's a trusted name at some of the biggest shows in the country. That reputation is taking center stage at the NRBC—one drag pass at a time.

Jordan Du Plessis Returns to NRBC for Her Second Year

All the way from South Africa, Jordan Du Plessis is back in the United States for her second year at the NRBC.

When she's not showing reining horses, Jordan's day job is nothing short of unique. Alongside her parents, she runs an Emergency Response Training Center located in the Port of Saldanha Bay—the deepest natural harbor in South Africa. There, they provide safety training for the oil and gas industry, covering everything from basic firefighting and first aid to abandon ship scenarios and yacht safety.

Jordan's specialty? Helicopter Underwater Escape Training (HUET). It's an intense and life-saving course where students are trained to escape simulated helicopter crashes in various scenarios—on dry land, partially submerged, and fully submerged while cap-sized in water. All of this takes place in a controlled, on-site environment designed by her parents. The courses are globally recognized and governed by OPITO, operating under the motto: "Work safely and return home safely."

Jordan has already certified students in approximately 150 HUET courses just this year. Her career began just out of high school as a safety diver, working her way up to assistant instructor, then instructor under supervision, and now, a full-time instructor. Even now, she continues to grow professionally, pursuing additional training in health and safety certifications. "I've got the perfect job, really, because I am outside, active, it's doing the same thing every day, but it's different every day. And I also get to come here and ride my horses whenever I want."

Jordan will be competing in the Non Pro Classic with Alpha Taris Chic—affectionately known as "Bay." A 2018 gelding by Wimpy Chic and out of Taris Attraction, "Bay" has been Jordan's partner in the show pen for the last three years. Jordan says Bay has taught her so much. "He has given me a lot of opportunity to grow and learn, and I really appreciate him. And he's fun. He's got such a personality. Everyone loves him, and he is a massive cuddle bug."

Since April is a quieter time for certifications at the training center, it allows Jordan to travel to the U.S. and focus on her other passion—showing horses. For this year's NRBC, she's most excited about seeing friends she's made in the U.S., showing Bay while continuing to learn and improve. She's especially grateful for the support of her parents and the Mathison team. "All of the help they've given me in general—I don't think there are enough words to tell them how thankful I am."

A MESSAGE FROM THE STEWARDS

Hanging hay bags is serious business.

We always want to keep our equine partners safe- especially overnight when we fill their hay bags and give them some down-time.

Be sure to tie those hay bags nice and high! They tend to stretch as the horses finish their hay, and we don't want anyone getting tangled up.

Please check your hay bag is high enough, once empty, to keep your horse safe!

Meet the Stewards

Our 2025 NRBC Stewards are Van Luse and Brenda Brown, along with Marlin Holroyd (not pictured).

Van will be working every day from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. and can be reached at (937) 207-8103 with any questions or concerns. Brenda's working hours are 3 p.m. to 1 a.m. and can be contacted at (NUMBER). Marlin can be reached at (NUMBER) and will be working from 11 p.m. to 9 a.m.
