Kim Muehlstaetter & Smoky Mountain Rein Lead Non Pro Classic Preliminaries

The first section of the National Reining Breeders Classic Non Pro preliminary round came to a close Tuesday afternoon, and at the end of the day, Arizona's Kim Muehlstaetter commanded the top spot of the leaderboard with a 220. Muehlstaetter rode Smoky Mountain Rein, a 5-year-old gelding whose lifetime earnings are approaching the $100,000 mark.

The more than 220 Non Pro Classic hopefuls will be whittled down to the crème de la crème through the preliminary round. After the third section of Non Pro preliminaries on Thursday, the top 30 in the Non Pro Levels 4, 3, 2, and 1 will advance to the clean-slate Finals on Saturday, April 19. Those competitors will be joined by the top 20 in the Prime Time Non Pro and the top 10 in the new Masters Non Pro.

Riders advancing to the Finals will learn their draw position during the Markel Insurance Non Pro Draw Party, slated for Thursday at 6 p.m.

Current leaders through the first section of the Non Pro prelims are:

Minke Venter

Minki Venter, a 15-year-old from Johannesburg, South Africa, made the 16-hour flight to compete in reining for the first time here at the NRBC. Minki got her start on the back of a show jumping pony, transitioning to the available Western events in 2018, when she got her first Quarter Horse. "A big, fat, and chunky horse—that's when I fell in love with it. I fell in love with him, and I fell in love with the sport."

For Minki, riding and showing in reining back home in South Africa looks a lot different. Horse shows are only offered outdoors, with most of them being English. The average class size she competes in is about 10 horses, with just a handful of different classes being offered. With NRHA only starting in her country in 2019 - and taking a pause during COVID - it's now seeing growth, including the addition of the Novice Horse Open class just last year! Minki credits her friend Jordan Du Plessis, and her coach from home, Tammy, for encouraging and pushing her to make the trip to compete. She says showing at the NRBC is like "something that pushes you to learn more, do more, and grow."

While she's here, she's looking forward to riding as many different horses as she can and trying out all the different arenas at the Tulsa Expo Square. "I struggled with ice boots yesterday, but I've got it down now. I'm nervous, but everyone's been so sweet." Her goal while at the show is to build a connection with her horse and learn how everyone else rides. She's also got her eye on qualifying for The Run For A Million, which is at the very top of her bucket list.

Looking ahead, Minki plans to finish high school and hopes to attend Texas A&M, where she'll work toward her dream job of becoming an equine chiropractor.

Minki will be showing in the Rookie classes at this year's NRBC with her horse Bigshot In The Dark, or "Frank." He's a gelding sired by Wimpys High Bid out of Surpriseinadarkalley. Her favorite maneuver on him is his stop. "He has big maneuvers and such a cute personality. He's a great first horse to learn on."

Frank was a birthday gift last August, and this is the first time Minki has gotten to meet and ride him in person. "I've already bonded with him so much. He's such a big talker - I think I was more excited to see him than to start learning when I got here." She had several people at the barn sending her photos so she could get her "Frank fix" until she could meet him herself. She could not thank the entire Story Book Stables team enough for their guidance and welcoming attitude, along with her coach Tammy for all of the help at home.

While Minki is focused on horses while she's here, if you don't find her in the saddle, you might catch her shopping for Wranglers - or in the Chick-fil-A line!

Treat Yo' Horse at the Cilantro Horse Snack Stop

Your equine athletes work hard! Now thanks to Tinker With Dreams, aka "Cilantro," you can reward your horse with a treat after a big run at the Cilantro Horse Snack Stop outside the Ford Truck Arena. Riders can treat their mounts to a selection of snacks, including apples, carrots, peppermints, and horse cookies, so there's something for even the choosiest of horses.

Cilantro is owned by Diamond Dub Quarter Horses, and was ridden to major victories with Dany Tremblay.

Cornhole Tournament Returns

The Nutrena Cornhole Tournament made a spectacular debut at last year's NRBC, delivering an exciting and competitive event where everyone had a shot at victory. In the end, Shane Walters and Kiefer Kaufman emerged as champions, each taking home a custom Nutrena NRBC cornhole set crafted by Stacy Palmer.

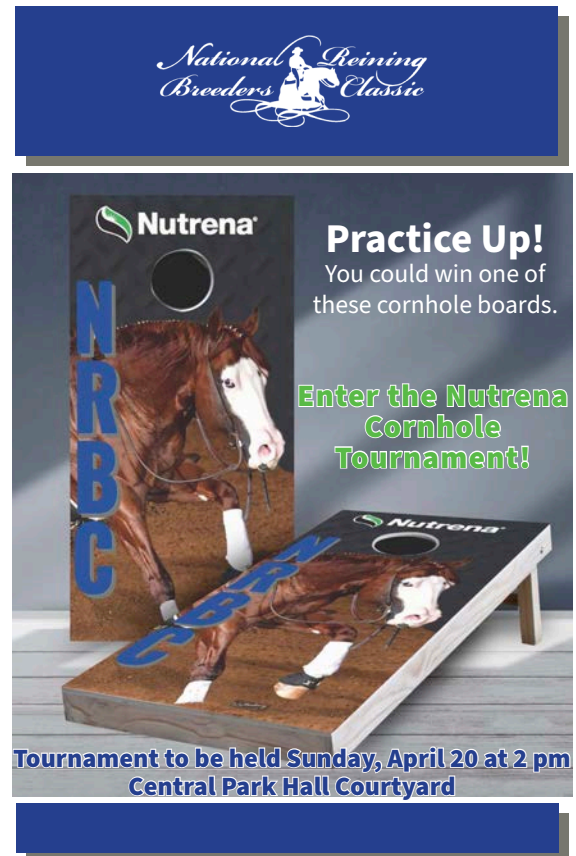

Building on that success, Nutrena is proud to return as the sponsor of the 2025 tournament, where this year's winners will once again earn custom sets. Scheduled for 2 PM on April 20 on the Central Park Lawn, the event promises another afternoon of friendly competition and lively entertainment for both participants and spectators.

The tournament has quickly become a signature NRBC tradition, bringing together friends and family for a fun-filled break from the arena. Thanks to Nutrena's continued support, competitors of all skill levels can enjoy the camaraderie and good-natured rivalry—all while contributing to a great cause, raising funds for Rein In Cancer.

"Some of the most memorable NRBC moments come from these extra activities," said NRBC Secretary-Treasurer Cheryl Cody. "Over the years, the show has built a tradition of creating those special experiences."

Nutrena Sale Consultant Kirk Chilson echoed the enthusiasm: "Last year's event was such a blast that we knew we had to keep it going and make it even bigger this year."

The tournament follows a simple format: two-member teams compete head-to-head, with the winning team advancing to the next round. Whether you're in it for the competition or just the fun, this event is one you won't want to miss!

Classic Connection - Butch Lemay

Butch Lemay is often found driving the tractor here at the NRBC, but that's not where it all started. Born and raised in Wisconsin, and spending his summers in Montana, Lemay grew up ranching. As a young child, he spent many days at a sale barn, in the pen with the ponies - taking them from one sale, riding them, and returning a few months later to sell.

Over the years, Butch put in countless hours in the saddle, competing in high school rodeo, then going on to college. He stayed in Wisconsin for school but traveled the country competing in rodeos, starting out on bareback horses. One day, he was entered into the saddle bronc event without his knowledge. He got on - and there was no looking back.

Throughout the years, he worked every event in rodeo. He was the first man to qualify for the International Finals Rodeo in two rough stock events and two timed events in the same year: calf roping, team roping, bareback riding, and saddle bronc riding. Only one other person has ever done the same. In 1984 and again in 1986, Butch Lemay became the Saddle Bronc Champion at the IFR. His favorite thing? Drawing a bucking horse that had never been ridden.

When he wasn't on horse, he trained with a boxer, learning that the mental game is just as important. "He had me believing I could do anything. And that was the mindset. I love pressure. I love to go last and know exactly how much I gotta be, how fast I gotta be. Or go first and set the pace, and say, 'Okay, now come and get it.' Either first or last."

During his early years as a rodeo contestant, Butch met his wife, Mary. One late night, she called him to help fix the footing at an arena she was judging at. He worked through the night, and he's been getting hired for events ever since. "My family had a background in construction, so I was always messing with dirt." He spent years in the family business, prepping concrete pads, setting up rodeo grounds, seeing dirt from every angle.

Now 72, Lemay still rides and ropes two to three days a week at home in Oklahoma, though he doesn't compete much anymore. He drives the tractor at about three to four shows a year, and his wife now enjoys retirement in her flower garden at home.

Looking back on his career, Lemay offered two pieces of advice: "It's really hard to soar with the eagles when you hang out with turkeys. Find the best person in the world and hang out with them."

And, "Don't eat much ice cream and French fries until you're done competing and retired."

Classic Connecton - Andie George

Andie George traveled to Tulsa for the NRBC to compete in her first derby with her new horse, Vintage Wimpy sired by Platinum Vintage out of Wimpys Seductress. She purchased the 6-year-old gelding in late August and, after riding him only twice, headed straight to her first major show - the High Roller - where she began learning his buttons on the go. She explained that he's laid back, and noted that the quirkiest thing he does is roll in shavings immediately after being cleaned.

Before NRBC, Andie had primarily shown in youth, rookie, and green classes. Although she lives in Texas, she trains with Crystal McNutt in Arizona, who helped her find her new horse.

When it comes to getting ready for a show, Andie emphasizes the importance of staying organized and level-headed. She tries not to overthink her performance, instead treating show days like any other day to keep her nerves in check. "The more I think about it, the more I wind myself up," she says. By keeping a consistent mindset - whether it's a local show or a major derby - she's able to stay calm and focused. After a show, she immediately shifts into organization mode, putting everything back in its place to reset and regroup for the next event.

Her horse show essential is hairspray, to keep her hat secure - no pins needed! Outside the arena, she enjoys desert drives, spending time with family and friends, and making the most of her schedule. She added that she loves the freedom of online high school classes, especially during hot Texas summers, which allow her to ride when conditions are best.

So what advice does Andie have for other big-event first timers? "Have fun, and see what it's all about."
