Novice Horse Open Levels 1, 2, & 3 Champions Yonathan Baruch & Gotta Little

Although the Ford Arena has taken center stage so far at the 2025 NRBC, don't overlook the Central Park Hall Arena. Big things are underway, as the Novice Horse Open has officially concluded and a 2025 champion has been recognized. Yonathan Baruch and Gotta Little did "get a little" — winning the Novice Horse Open Level 1, 2, and 3.

"He's owned (and bred) by Bobby Lewis, and he just gave him to me as an opportunity. He's a fantastic horse. I'm just basically getting him seasoned and ready to go to the NRHA Derby," Baruch said of the 4-year-old stallion by Spooks Gotta Whiz and out of Dolittle Lena.

With the triple-level win and 73 score, Baruch won a total of $2,838.

When asked about his ride, Baruch said, "Honestly, it felt on spot... I was going for a good solid run — that will generate the results that I want to do at the Derby."

Since riding the stellar stallion this week wouldn't be possible without Lewis, Baruch gives special thanks to him, as well as other members of his team.

"I want to thank Bobby Lewis for the opportunity and all of my staff. It takes a team — whether it's my riders, my assistants, the grooms, our farriers, our veterinarians, our clients, our sponsors."

Limited Non Pro [1] Champions Grace Tachikawa & Maggie Magnum

The Ford Truck Arena may have taken a break this Easter Sunday, but the Central Park Hall and Super Duty Arena still had plenty of champions to crown.

Over in the Central Park Hall Arena, Grace Tachikawa and Maggie Magnum picked up the Limited Non Pro Championship with a score of 72.

Maggie Magnum is a 9-year-old mare, bred by Casey Hinton, by Magnum Chic Dream and out of Skeets Red Dunit.

Tachikawa got connected to Maggie Magnum through riding with Austin Roush, who knew the owner of the mare.

“I’m leasing her from Tyler Williams... They were just using her as a broodmare. She was retired. She didn’t have shoes on, she wasn’t in shape, and I fell in love immediately... So I immediately asked, ‘Would they let a Non Pro show her?’ And sure enough, we asked Tyler, and he agreed, and we’ve been together almost a full year now,” Tachikawa said.

While the team clinched a win, Tachikawa said it wasn’t perfect right out the gate.

“She’s the quietest horse in the world, but she didn’t like the light-up reiner sign down there. She was really good in her turns, we loped off to go circle, and she was just kind of looking at it. And I was like, ‘if you make it a big deal, it’s gonna be a big deal.’ But if I just keep riding her forward, she’ll settle in. And she did... If you stay out of her way and just be a good pilot, that’s all you have to do with it.”

Tachikawa also rode Friday morning in the Super Duty Arena, winning the AQHA Amateur Reining with a 72.5. Previously retired or not, Maggie Magnum and Tachikawa are making waves in the reining pen this NRBC.

Prime Time Non Pro and Masters Champions Bettina Bellini & Slick Tricks

Bettina Bellini & Slick Tricks snagged the win in the Masters Non Pro and Legends Pro in the Central Park Arena.

Slick Tricks is a six-year-old gelding bred by Cayce Bennett and owned by Haras Bellini. He is by Tricked Out Spook and out of Too Spooked to Drive.

“He’s really, really good. Anything that goes wrong out there would be all of my fault. He has a really cute personality, and he’s just really fun to ride,” Bellini said.

Bellini said the gelding was stellar in the stops and on the circles, helping secure the 71 score to win.

Bellini personally thanks her trainer, Fred Thomsson, for helping her and Slick Tricks add two titles to their earnings.

Non Pro Prime Time Champions Anne-Marie Roy & Magnum A Dare

Anne Roy could be described in no other way than ecstatic after she and Magnum A Dare took the Prime Time Non Pro Championship as their own.

Magnum A Dare is by Magnum With A Dream and out of Adarable. The 8-year-old gelding is bred by Terry Martin and owned by JCR Performance Horses.

"I've owned him for about a year and a half, and he's just been an incredible horse for me to get my confidence on and for me to show," Roy said.

A run instilling confidence in the team is what Roy was shooting for – a 71.5 score to win the class was just icing on the cake.

"The goal for the run today was to really be clean, intentional, hit all my spots, and to really be more aggressive on the run-downs, and to go a little faster on the circles, and to get the lead changes right on in the middle... There's still some things to work on, but it was a good confidence build today."

While Roy thanks the entire Leclair barn, she specifically thanks two trainers in particular—Jared Leclair and Gloria Spiaggi—for helping Roy formulate the plans needed to achieve a win like this.

Rookie Level 2 Champions Lexi Laster & KR Dually Dun Gun

While she may be a rookie, Lexi Laster and KR Dually Dun Gun turn in scores to the contrary.

With a score of 72.5, the duo won the Rookie Level 2 Championship in the Super Duty Arena.

"We walked in, started spinning, and spun awesome. (He) circled great for me and stopped nice, rolled back, and everything good," Laster said.

The 12-year-old gelding, bred by Pete L. Kyle and owned by Laster, is by Mister Nicadual and out of Gunner Git Ya Dun. Laster has been riding the gelding for two years now.

The young cowgirl thanks trainer, Gunny Mathison, and family members for the constant encouragement.

Laster loves coming to the NRBC for the welcoming environment it fosters, and that energy is why she'll keep on returning, even when she is no longer considered a rookie.

Prime Time Rookie & Rookie Level 1 Champion

Valerie Sturgeon & Whizkeys Shining Gun

Whizkeys Shining Gun may not be registered in Valerie Sturgeon's first name, but she sure does ride him like her own. Scoring a 73, the team won the Prime Time Rookie & Rookie Level 1 Championship.

Whizkeys Shining Gun is an 8-year-old gelding by Guns R For Shootin and out of Whizkeynrhinestones, bred by Rhodes River Ranch and owned by Sturgeon's son, Caleb.

"He actually belongs to my son... We were at Tampa (for a reining show) two weekends ago, and Shannon and Mark Rafacz tried to talk me into coming (to the NRBC), and I had to get permission from my son if I could borrow his horse to come here. So that's the reason I'm here is because Caleb let me borrow his horse," Sturgeon said with a laugh.

Sturgeon spent many hours in an English saddle before switching over to Western, so there are a few things she strives to be mindful of when heading into the arena. "I did the hunt seat before the reiners, so my biggest battle is sitting back and running down for my stops, but I got those done today."

While Sturgeon thanks Shannon and Mark Rafacz for the mentorship and her mom for making the trip to the NRBC with her, the Prime Time Rookie & Rookie Level 1 Championship wouldn't have been possible without the permission of her son to borrow Whizkeys Shining Gun – and she very well may ask to borrow the gelding a few more times in pursuit of a few more titles.

Along with the Prime Time Rookie and Rookie Level 1 win, Sturgeon also won a pair of non exotic boots from Rios Of Mercedes for the Rookie high score in slate 1.

Classic Connection - Maggie Downing

There are plenty of first-time NRBC contestants here this week, and while Maggie Downing fits into that category, she also uniquely fits into the category of being a first-time reining competitor altogether. While Downing has been riding horses since about age six alongside her sister, she's bounced between several disciplines.

"We started at this little English barn, and we took some English lessons. We switched to Western Pleasure, did that for three years and did some county shows. And then we switched back to English and did eventing. Then I did show jumping until I was about 14," Downing said.

While a show jumping course is the one she has most recently traveled, before this summer, it had been nearly five years since Downing had consistently ridden.

"My confidence kind of just got killed, but my sister kept show jumping. At the (jumping) barn we rode at, we met Cameron and Kristin Brees. My older sister would go to shows with their daughters after I stopped riding."

When the Brees' daughters decided to dip their toes into the waters of reining through Sebastian Petroll, Downing felt encouraged to do the same. "I wanted to get back into riding because I was going through a rough patch when I stopped, and I kind of regretted it. I decided I could just start taking lessons and see where it goes. So I started taking lessons last summer, and I was like, 'If I do get back into horses, this might be something I can get back into.'"

Through the Brees and riding with Petroll, Downing was able to lease her first reining horse in February – Gunna Shine Now, a 5-year-old mare by Gunnatrashya and out of Designed With Shine, owned by Brees Quarter Horses and bred by Rosanne Sternberg. While entering her first-ever Green Reiner class at the NRBC is intimidating, Downing said the Petroll barn has made it a special experience.

"The trainers make or break how you feel, and they've been such a relief for me. They're so encouraging, and they've made it so much fun for me." First NRBC or not, Downing doesn't feel behind compared to her fellow competitors – she just feels ecstatic to be here.

"I wouldn't say I feel behind. This is the position I got put in, and this is what I'm working from. I look at it as God's timing. If God decides that it's gonna take me however far, then it's gonna take me however far."

Classic Connection - Elena Hurd

Elena Hurd is a returning NRBC competitor whose love of horses has led her to the discovery of two passions – reining and chiropractic care. While she grew up on the East Coast, specifically in Delaware, Hurd moved to Texas to attend college at Texas Christian University.

“I moved for college, and then decided I never wanted to go back,” Hurd said.

While college is where Hurd found her love for the Lone Star State, it’s also where she fell headfirst for the industry of reining, a pursuit further shaped through the mentorship of trainer Josh Tishman. Alongside Josh, his wife Leighton, became mentor for Hurd on the career front.

“So I was at TCU and didn’t really know what I wanted to do. I knew I wanted to stay in Texas. Leighton had graduated not long before I needed to make a choice, so kind of just fell into it.”

Leighton attended Parker University in Dallas for her Doctorate of Chiropractic, and following in her footsteps, Hurd did, too. However, before Hurd made the official jump to enroll, a certain trip to Tulsa was the driving force behind sealing the deal.

“About five years ago, I wrecked my car and still immediately came to the horse show here, the Tulsa Ride & Slide. Layton worked on me for like a good hour before I went in ‘cause I wasn’t able to turn my neck. I worked, went in, marked like an 18 or something that day. I kind of realized how much good it (chiropractic care) can do,” Hurd said.

Now, Hurd operates a newly opened mobile chiropractic business, where she focuses on people but is also certified to work on dogs and horses. “I’m just kind of breaking into it and putting my toes in the water, but I’m happy with how busy I’ve been.”

This week, Hurd brought two horses to compete at the NRBC. “I’m showing in the Novice Horse with my mare. She was a little bit of a late bloomer because she was quite the bronc as a 3-year-old. We took it slowly, but now she’s up and coming. We worked 71.5 in the Novice Horse Level 1, so I’m happy with her. She’s getting better all the time,” Hurd said.

With that 71.5 score On Got Yourself A Gun, a 5-year-old mare by Spooks Gotta Whiz and out of Smart Chic Katie, bred and owned by Mark Hurd, the team placed second in the first slate of the Novice Horse Level 1.

“I’m also showing in the second slate of the Novice Horse with my mare. And then I’m taking my old gelding, who’s 12 now, into the Non Pro Challenge Maturity, which two years ago, we actually won the levels 1 through 4 of the Maturity. So I’m kind of hoping we can make a return.”

With such a strong start to the 2025 NRBC, Hurd might just be perfectly aligned to crack out a win this week.

Classic Connection

Calina Bouchner

Stateside is a place Calina Bouchner hasn't always been. Although a German native by birth, Bouchner now claims Texas as her home away from home.

"I moved here with my saddle and my luggage, and that was it," Bouchner said. Working as an assistant trainer under Kole Price is what brought Bouchner to the states, but she was involved in the reining industry well before then. "My family would fly down and ride with and buy horses from a trainer down here. Then we shipped them over to Germany (where) my mom showed horses. I've rode my whole life."

The Bouchner's operate a small-scale, personal breeding business that, at the time, extended over to America. Since some of their foals hit the ground in the U.S, a friend raising a crop of them in the states connected the Bouchner family with the Prices. "We had horses in training with them... We bought nice mares and then sent them in training with Kole. The idea came from our friend who's raising our babies in Wisconsin because she knows them pretty well. And she said, 'We should try this.'"

After working with the Prices internationally, Bouchner had working with them full-time on her radar. "Right after (I was done with) school, I flew over here with my mom. I rode with Kole in January or February for two weeks, and I think it matched. But I had to go home and get a farmer's degree. After I did that, I asked Kole and Kelsey if they still want me to come over and work for them, and they said, 'Yes, they would love me to,' so I moved here." Now, one and a half years later, Bouchner couldn't envision being anywhere else.

"It is way different because the whole horse industry is so much bigger here... When you live over here and you tell somebody you're a horse trainer, it's a normal thing. If you're back in Germany, and you tell somebody you're riding horses all day, they're looking at you like you're crazy."

Although she hasn't had her long, Bouchner's horse, Ruf Style Of Play, has a lot to do with her more recent U.S. success. Bred by Lorenzo Lotti and owned by Bouchner's parents, the nine-year-old mare by Not Ruf At All and out of UB Stylin With Me has quite the track record.

"She's very famous. It's a lot of pressure when you know you're riding a mare that's so famous. She tries really hard. Like, I know that she can do anything... And she's giving us great babies."

At the NRBC, Bouchner and Ruf Style Of Play will be competing in the Rookie Professional and looking to prove their place in the U.S. reining industry.
